

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present invention realizes electronic commerce by providing a reception section that receives product
5 information and service information and a barcode formation section that forms a barcode based on the received information, displaying the barcode formed by the barcode formation section on a display section and allowing a barcode reader provided at a shop terminal,
10 etc. to read this barcode.